

Nordic workshop on AI in statistical advising and analysis

Date: Tuesday, 15th September 2026

Location: Rødt auditorium, Rikshospitalet B, Sognsvannsveien 20, 0372 Oslo, Norway

Registration and payment: Use this link to kompetansebroen.

Time	Lecture and activity	Presenter
09:00 – 09:30	Coffee and registration
09:30 – 09:45	Welcome to the workshop	Manuela Zucknick, University of Oslo, Norway
Session 1: Current use of AI for statistical analysis
Moderator: Paul Dickman, Karolinska Institutet, Sweden
09:45 – 10:15	Scoping review on use of AI in medical statistics	Sandra Eloranta and Orlanda Brahimllari, Karolinska Institutet, Sweden
10:15 – 10:45	Efficient use of AI for statistical advisors: From chat to agents and back again to canvas	Harald Weedon-Fekjær, Oslo University Hospital, Norway
10:45 – 11:00	Break
Session 2: Keynote speaker
Moderator: Thor Aspelund, University of Iceland, Iceland
11:00 – 11:45	The AI Copilot for Statistics: Promise, Pitfalls, and Practical Reality	David Köhler, Institute for Medical Biometry, Informatics and Epidemiology (IMBIE) University of Bonn
11:45 – 12:00	Questions and discussions
12:00 – 13:00	Lunch
Session 3: The future for medical statistical advising and data analyst after AI
Moderator: Juho Kopra, University of Eastern Finland, Finland
13:00 – 13:30	Useful AI tool in medical research – tips och best practise	Nils Hentati Isacson, Karolinska Institutet, Stockholm
13:30 – 14:00	Ethics and law on AI for biomedical applications	Virginia Conde Ruiz, University of Oslo, Norway
14:00 – 14:15	Break with coffee and cakes
Session 4: Panel debate, workshop and Nordic network
Moderator: Andreas Kryger Jensen, University of Copenhagen, Denmark
14:15 – 14:30	Introduction to panel debate
14:30 – 15:30	Panel discussion and workshop: How will AI impact teaching statistics, advising and research methodology in biomedical research.	Thor Aspelund David Köhler Paul Dickman Juho Kopra Andreas Kryger Jensen
15:30 – 16:00	Presentation of the Nordic network on statistical advising	Sandra Eloranta and Are Hugo Pripp
16:00 – 17:00	Social mingling with light refreshments

Pre-workshop social dinner

Date and time: Monday, 14th September at 19:00 – 21:00

Location: A restaurant in Oslo city center. The exact location will be announced later.

Cost: Participants will pay for their own dinner and beverages. Due to table booking, please register with name and e-mail using this link \(nettskjema\).